

2024 Estimated Capital Gains Distributions

The following pages list 2024 estimated capital gain distributions for certain DWS funds, payable to shareholders as of the dates indicated. It is important to note that no amounts will be provided for distributions attributable to net investment income. With these capital gain payments, please keep in mind the following:

- _ Short-term and long-term capital gains are taxed at different rates. Please consult a tax advisor regarding your specific tax situation.
- _ Amounts shown are "per share". To calculate your capital gain distribution, multiply the per-share amounts in the chart by the amount of shares you own. Your final capital gain distribution will be based on the number of shares you own on the fund's record date.
- _ Prospective investors should consider purchasing shares after the record date in order to avoid a tax liability on gains their shares did not earn.

Per-share amounts are based on the estimated number of shares outstanding on the funds' record date.

Note that any tax or legal information presented is merely a summary of our understanding and interpretation of some of the current tax laws and regulations and is not exhaustive. Consult your legal or tax counsel for advice and information concerning your particular situation. Neither DWS nor any of its representatives may give tax or legal advice.

Important risk information

War, terrorism, sanctions, economic uncertainty, trade disputes, public health crises and related geopolitical events have led and, in the future, may lead to significant disruptions in U.S. and world economies and markets, which may lead to increased market volatility and may have significant adverse effects on the fund and its investments.

Investments in mutual funds involve risk. Stocks may decline in value. Bond investments are subject to interest-rate and credit risks. When interest rates rise, bond prices generally fall. Credit risk refers to the ability of an issuer to make timely payments of principal and interest.

Investing in derivatives entails special risks relating to liquidity, leverage and credit that may reduce returns and/or increased volatility.

Investing in foreign securities, particularly those of emerging markets, presents certain risks, such as currency fluctuations, political and economic changes, and market risks. There are additional risks associated with investing in commodities, high-yield bonds, aggressive growth stocks, non-diversified/ concentrated funds and small- and mid-cap stocks which are more fully explained in the prospectuses. Please read the prospectus for more information.
